@ NDSU VIDEO PROJECT - WITH PRIZES! DUE FRIDAY, MARCH 4TH

The Office of Teaching and Learning seeks students (individuals or groups) to participate in this spring's @ NDSU video project! This spring the @ NDSU video project is open to students of any major.

Selected proposals will create short workshop videos (10 minutes or less) demonstrating the practical application of a concept in their field of study for a high school student audience. Ideally, these videos will be used by teachers in high school classrooms to teach concepts to students, as well as demonstrate to those students what a visual artist or graphic designer might do as a part of their job.

This event was born out of the pandemic and a desire to be able to share student work with high school students. Our goal is to make the topics approachable for high school students and introduce them to a field of study they might not have otherwise known about or been interested in. Highlighting different areas of study allows these young adults to experience what those disciplines look like in postsecondary education and the real world.

First place will receive a $100 Gift Card to The NDSU Bookstore, second place will receive a $50 Gift Card to The NDSU Bookstore, and third place will receive a $25 Gift Card to The NDSU Bookstore. Criteria for judging will include: engagement, creativity, applicability, teaching, and overall quality.

Video proposals are due no later than Friday, March 4, 2022, but can be sent in at any point before then. The final videos will need to be submitted by Friday, March 11, 2022. We will be posting videos on the Office of Teaching and Learning YouTube page and will be sending the links out to high school teachers across the state in mid-March.

CO-OP ARCHITECTURE FRIENDS & CITIZENS DESIGN STUDIO | SUMMER 2022 DUE FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4TH

CO-OP Architecture is a South Dakota based design and planning firm dedicated to creating better architecture in our own backyard. In 2019, CO-OP Architecture launched 'Friends & Citizens' - a summer-long, design studio committed to combining the academic and professional world of architecture for interns in any level of education. CO-OP Architecture oversees a group of 3-4 students, offering them the tools and guidance required to complete a theoretical, yet comprehensive, design project. Students will collaborate with various entities, including owners, municipalities or governments, local organizations, and other design consultants. The mission of 'Friends & Citizens' is to have professionals collaborate with students to develop design skills while participating in public policy discussions, developing smart land-use and urban planning strategies, considering sustainability, and most importantly; building vibrant communities. In short, the program wants to improve our neighborhoods and our world as Friends & Citizens. Students in architecture, interior design, landscape architecture, graphic design, construction management, or any other relevant field are all encouraged to apply if interested. Students will be able to participate remotely from our offices in Aberdeen, Rapid City, or Sioux Falls and would focus on tasks related to their respective field. The Friends & Citizens Studio is part of a paid internship experience; 50% of applicants' time will be allocated toward the design studio, while the remaining time will focus on more typical internship duties to ensure a well rounded summer internship experience.
